Anders has advised energy businesses since 1993. Over the last 20 years, businesses in the power and natural gas supply industries in particular have experienced dramatic changes to their governing conditions. Anders has taken a central role in the resulting development that these businesses have undergone, both in terms of ownership and corporate structure, and also in terms of operations.

Anders' detailed knowledge of the regulatory framework coupled with his vast experience in company law and mergers and acquisitions have made him a sought-after adviser, and he has assisted with a range of important events in the energy sector. Anders has been involved in practically every major transaction over the past ten years in the Danish energy sector, as well as many of the high-profile and noteworthy legal actions brought before the competent public authorities. He has also been involved in a number of central legislative initiatives – most recently in connection with the implementation of the third liberalisation directive and the introduction of the wholesale model in the Danish Electricity Supply Act.

High-profile cases

Anders has assisted, among other things, in the structuring of the world's first-ever direct investments in off-shore windfarms by institutional investors. Recently, his expertise has been put to use in i.a. the sale of Radius Elnet A/S, the biggest electricity distribution company in Denmark, and he is also involved in various CCS projects and the building of the North Sea Energy Island.
