

Jeppé Lefevre Olsen

Partner (Aarhus)

Jeppé Lefevre Olsen is a public law specialist, advising on two main areas: procurement law and other public regulatory matters, including municipal legal issues, subsidy schemes, environmental law, utilities and infrastructure. As knowledge ambassador, Jeppé is responsible for Kromann Reumert's procurement and public law practice group.

He advises on all procurement law aspects, assisting in particular contracting authorities calling for tenders. From the initial strategic considerations and market dialogues, the drafting of the tender documents and the completion of the tender process to the final contract and commencement of the cooperation.

Jeppé also assists clients in identifying business opportunities in tenders, submitting tenders and filing complaints, and assists in any legal issue arising during the cooperation.

With experience from "both sides", Jeppe is able to offer commercial advice on the process and the documents to facilitate a lasting cooperation, where focus is also on the "underlying" project that must be successfully implemented. That provides an important link between the process and the contract - the advice constitutes an integrated whole.

Jeppe also provides advice on public regulation in general, including municipal legal issues, subsidy schemes, infrastructure projects, defence procurements, environmental, waste and utility issues, and on the interfaces to public law regulation and projects in a political context. It enables him to offer a package deal solution - also when feelings run high.

Jeppe offers practical hands-on advice, having regard to the context in which it is needed. His daily contact with a large number of public and semi-public organisations and businesses enables him to meet clients' individual needs. He stands out for his excellent communication skills, which he uses for instance when communicating with decision-makers.

Finally, Jeppe is head of Kromann Reumert's procurement and public law knowledge ambassadors and therefore responsible for strengthening internal and external knowledge sharing in both areas, including in relation to emerging trends and new regulation and case law from relevant complaint boards and courts, and for streamlining advisory services in the practice areas.
