Malte Raugland Wisborg specialises in general commercial and company law and business transfers (M&A).

Malte helps a wide variety of Danish and international clients on commercial law issues, in particular in connection with business transfers and drafting of contracts.

He has particular experience as adviser in distressed M&A transactions, where he handles the specific concerns that both the buyer and the seller may have. Malte stands out for his pragmatic approach, combining legal excellence with commercial awareness to find the best solution for the client.

Malte has previously worked with insolvency law and therefore has deep insight into the insolvency law aspects that should be taken into account if the client or the client's business partner is distressed, including in relation to avoidance, management liability, etc.
